FRAMTID UTAN GRÄNSER

Non-profit association

Solidarity is circular.

We do not help people so that they will owe us something or so that we can receive their gratitude. We help so that people can gain the strength and opportunity to move forward.

When someone who has received support is one day able to do so, they can in turn help someone else. In this way, solidarity continues - from person to person.

Receive when you need it. Contribute when you can. Pass it on.

One day, we ourselves may need someone else's support.

Who are we?

Framtid utan gränser is a politically and religiously independent non-profit association working for a more sustainable, equal and solidary society.

Our second-hand activities are the engine of broader social and environmental work. Through collection and reuse, we create resources for aid initiatives while also creating tasks, community and opportunities for people.

We want our activities to be more than shops - they should be meeting places where people, reuse and

Collection - the foundation of reuse

A large part of our work begins with things people no longer need. By collecting clothes, shoes, textiles, furniture, household goods and other useful items, we can give them a new life instead of letting them become waste.

We are flexible and look for different collection solutions based on the conditions in each locality.

This can include collecting clothes, household items and furniture at recycling centres, collecting from private homes, or using collection containers for clothes, textiles and shoes.

We are keen to cooperate with municipalities, waste companies, property owners and other actors to find solutions that work locally.

The best option is when donations are delivered directly to our second-hand shop. This reduces transport and handling costs,

People, work and opportunities

Through our activities, we want to create opportunities for people to have meaningful occupation, develop and move closer to supporting themselves.

Our second-hand shops and collection work offer many different tasks. This allows us to meet people with different experiences, circumstances and needs and give them the opportunity to find what works for them.

In Kumla we also have a small sharpening workshop and work with window restoration. Practical tasks include sharpening knives and tools, cutting glass, painting, puttying and minor wood repairs.

The goal is not only to offer something to do - but to create a way forward, with community, responsibility and

Help in the local community

When someone has been homeless, lived with addiction, fled violence or threats in a close relationship, or escaped war and is given a home, the next step is to make that home safe and functional.

We can help with necessary furniture, kitchen equipment, a television, toys, music and other things that make everyday life work for both adults and children.

We believe that a safe and functional home can reduce the risk of returning to addiction or crime and can provide better conditions for recovery after war, violence and insecurity.

We reach people through social services, non-profit organisations, the Swedish Prison and Probation Service, women's shelters and through being part of the local community.

A clear stand against violence and oppression

Framtid utan gränser clearly rejects men's violence against women, violence in close relationships, and honour-related violence and oppression.

Our support should also be practical. We provide financial support to organisations working with people exposed to violence and can help with materials, furniture, household goods, clothes and transport when needed.

A position only has meaning when it is also reflected in action.

Our shops - trade, meetings and opportunities

In Kumla, we run a second-hand shop at Hagendalsvägen 20. Across approximately 500 square metres there is a large and varied selection of clothes, furniture, household items, tools and much more.

The operation currently consists of 2 employees and 3 volunteers. In addition, 9 people are with us through, among others, the Swedish Public Employment Service, the Prison and Probation Service, social services and daily activity programmes.

The shop is more than a place for trade. It is also a meeting place where people can meet, socialise, contribute according to their ability and become part of a community.

During November 2026, we plan to open another second-hand shop in central Karlskoga. The ambition is to build on the same idea as in Kumla: reuse, community, work training and social benefit under one roof.

Kumla today - Karlskoga is the next step.

International aid

We help partner organisations carry out their social work.

Through cooperation with Emmaus groups and other organisations, we send materials that can be used in their local social work.

Our goal is five aid shipments per year. So far in 2026, we have sent four aid shipments. These may include furniture, clothes, textiles, household goods and other useful resources.

The images show materials being loaded for onward transport to our partners.

Reuse here can become a resource for social work far beyond Sweden's borders.

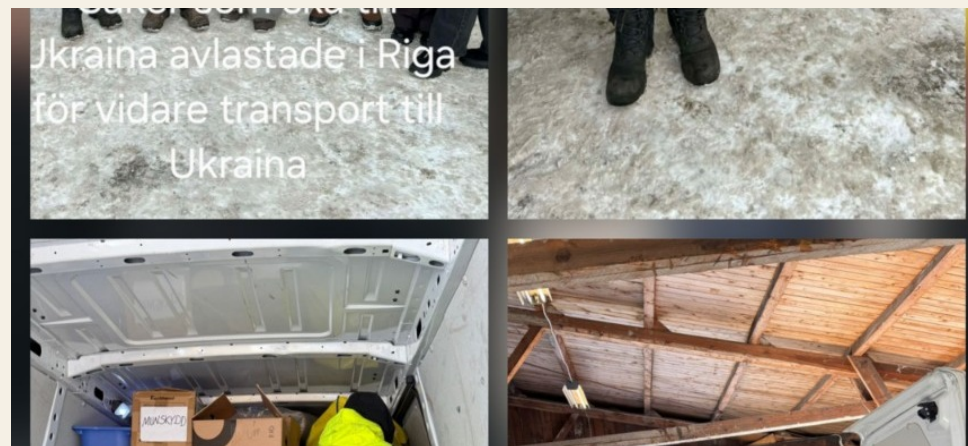

Support for Ukraine

Our support for Ukraine is based on targeted collections according to current lists of needs.

Needs determine what we collect - not simply what happens to be available. This can include everything from dog food and hygiene products to tyres, tools, nails and other equipment.

We cooperate with Volontärgrupp T19 and Operation Change to get requested materials onward to Ukraine.

We have also cooperated with Tavi Draugi in Riga, Latvia, where materials have been forwarded in support of Ukraine.
